-Spectator Notes-

In case you've been wondering who is painting the Red Cross graph on Dolores street, showing campaign results, it's George Yates. George says that the undertaking imposes limits on his artistic abilities, but he feels that the fact he was chosen to do the work is a subtle tribute to his talents. George says he does his painting when he feels in his "creative mood."

The Spectator got to wondering about that light bulb on the end of a stick which is attached to a wire above the corner of Dolores and Ocean. No one could tell what it was until Street Superintendent Bill Askew came to the rescue. Bill explained that the light was installed to make it easier for the patrolman on the beat to see the police department's red light. The red light is the signal the office uses to have the night policeman call in.

A very quiet meeting was held at Del Monte Lodge over the weekend. Top executives from many of the nation's biggest corporations meet informally to discuss the economic outlook and what their different businesses are doing in the way of planning for the future. The Spectator hears that the majority seemed to agree that things will be rather stable for the first six months of the year, and that further inflation can be expected in the last half. The fact that taxes will not be such a major drain in the last half will lead to the inflation, the businessmen believed.

The Spectator received an interesting note this week from the advertising manager of the Bay of Plenty Times at Tauranga, New Zealand. He has a side-line. He sells inlaid wood rulers. A regular reader of The Spectator, Rod Ingall thought an advertisement might help him in "building up a small dollar credit as it were." He adds he is "risking the whole of my meagre dollar credit on an advert. in the Spectator." Rod confided to The Spectator that he is now getting dollars at the rate of four per year. By the way, it's on our classified page.

When Allen Knight donated the trophy to the winner of the Monterey Peninsula Police Pistol League, he had hopes that it would spur the Carmel teams to make the big effort and keep the trophy in town. But the Highway Patrol boys were too good and walked off with it.

One of the sure signs of spring is that Sieglinde, the parrot, is out in front of the NB Flower Shop at Lincoln and 6th. No cage, just a perch. The parrot got her name because she breaks out with snatches of Wagner from time to time.

Tuesday's sunny weather brought out a rash of absences at Carmel High... 23. Dorothy Wright administers the paper involved in unexcused absences, pink slips. She says that most of the faces that turned up for one of the slips were pink too---bore all evidences of infant sun tans.

The recipient of what might well be the most costly phone call ever piped to the Peninsula, was little Westy Fletcher. His birthday is tomorrow and last week his folks, in mid-Atlantic, put through a ship-to-California phone call to wish him many happy returns, from the Isle de France.

Congratulations to Carmelites Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, a daughter Abbie Carroll; Dr. and Mrs. Eric Berne, a son Eric David; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McArthur, a daughter Susan Maxine. And also to new Robles Del Rio parents Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Braren and Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Mauzey, both daughters.

The Village Week

COUNCIL CANDIDATES INVITED TO FORUM

Carmel voters will have a chance to hear the candidates for city council Monday night at Sunset auditorium. Each will have a chance to express briefly his views, and then the meeting will become a forum for questions and discussion.

Bert Heron, long a civic leader and ex-mayor, will be moderator. The meeting is sponsored by the Carmel Business Association. It will start at 8 o'clock.

Six candidates are in the running for the three seats. They are Allen Knight and Gene Ricketts, incumbents, Francis Whitaker, Horace Lyon, Mrs. Geraldine Smith, and Reed Pollock.

THREE LOCAL MEN IN SUPERVISOR RACE

John J. Redhead, Carmel attorney who practices in Pacific Grove, is the third to enter the race for county supervisor from this district. He filed his papers yesterday.

In the race he will oppose incumbent Andy Jacobsen, veteran chairman of the board from Pacific Grove, and David Gill, Pacific Grove attorney, who filed earlier this week.

THIRD BUSINESSMAN FROM HAWAII SETTLES HERE

George D. Russell is the third important businessman from Hawaii to settle in this area. Ground was broken this week for his sizeable home in the Rancho Rio Vista tract.

Previously, Francis Brown and Hubert L. Dalton recently completed homes in the Jack's Peak area.

The Russell home was designed by Thomas S. Elston, Jr., Carmel architect.

LEASE CARMEL STORE

Hallie Sampson and A. C. Lafrenze, who have been in business in Carmel since 1928, have leased their Ocean avenue store to Pete Peleuses, who will open a liquor and fine foods shop there.

The Lafrenze-Sampson Der Ling shop first opened in the El Paseo building 24 years ago, moving to the Kocher building in 1932, and to their present location in 1934.

DRIVER EDUCATION AWARD

AS ONE OF THE PARTICIPATING SCHOOLS, Carmel High was awarded a reprint of the plaque won by the State of California for 1951 for Achievement in High School Driver Education. The annual award is made by the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies. Shown above are Horace Lyon, Vice President of the Carmel Association of Insurance Agents; Stuart Mitchell, Superintendent of Schools, who received the award on behalf of the high school; Barnett J. Segal, President of the Carmel Association of Insurance Agents, who presented the award, and Alan Aldwell, instructor in driver education.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR CITY ELECTION READY

Those who will be unable to vote in the city election April 8 must apply for an absentee ballot before April 3. City Clerk Peter Mawdsley has the forms at his office.

Those who will be unable to go to the polls or who will be out of the city election day may obtain the absentee ballots.

PATTEE HEADS COMMITTEE TO REELECT KNOWLAND

Alan Pattee, prominent Monterey County Republican, has been named chairman of the county committee working to reelect Senator William Knowland. Pattee announced that the committee will be non-partisan and will attempt to elect Knowland in the June 3 primaries.

Anyone interested in working for Knowland is asked to communicate with Pattee.

The Salinas Republican has also been named as a member of the Warren-for-President delegation to the Republican convention. Petitions to qualify the delegation are now in circulation.

OLMSTED REAPPOINTED AS COUNTY PLANNER

Charles Olmsted, vice president of Del Monte Properties Company, has been reappointed to serve on the county planning commission. He has been a member of the group since 1945.

Olmsted's appointment to a four-year term was made by the board of supervisors.

$3,610 TO GO ON RED CROSS DRIVE

With over $5 million needed for national tornado emergency relief, the local Red Cross quota was raised by $740 this week. Carmel has so far gathered $19,273...$2,870 short of its original quota, and $3,510 short of its new emergency quota. Though the drive was scheduled to close on the 31st of March, it will be open for volunteer donations a little longer in the hope of raising more aid for the mid-Western disaster.

An Editorial

There appears to be some dissension in the ranks of the GOP county central committee. In trying to run the committee with a heavy hand, C. V. Christierson, chairman, has encountered a little rough going.

Because of the importance of the elections this year, he evidently thought that iron discipline was what was needed in the ranks. Some of the members, smarting from what they consider his high-handed methods, are now restless and his influence is now less than it was a few months ago.

Christierson's obvious support of Taft and Bramblett is the cause of his lessening influence. Because Bramblett is the Congressman from this district, we will confine our remarks to him. This community's wishes play only a small part in the selection of a presidential candidate.

But in selecting a Congressional candidate, it is vitally important. The central committee's unqualified support of Bramblett is not an accurate mirror of the way the members feel. Due to Christierson's high-handed methods, the candidacy of James L. Holmes, Santa Barbara Republican, was not even considered.

We hold no special brief for Holmes. But we feel that any Republican candidate in the primary deserves a hearing before the central committee. This is especially true when a district has been as poorly represented as this one has been by Ernie Bramblett.

The Democrats have put up a strong candidate, Will Hayes. The Republicans should be putting the strongest man they can in the race. The strongest man should be selected through the primaries.

Christierson has sidestepped this whole procedure. He evidently decided many months ago that the central committee would endorse Bramblett, and he has accomplished that end.

In his recent remarks, printed in the Herald, Christierson commented that none of the central committee's campaign funds will be used in the primary election. But at an earlier meeting of the central committee, money was voted for the erection of Bramblett billboards FOR THE PRIMARY ELECTION. Either the committee has changed its mind, or there is duplicity in the actions of the chairman.

The Spectator is not endorsing any candidate for

MORE MOVES DUE IN CARMEL BUSINESS AREA

More changes in Carmel's business district. Sarah M. Anderson and Marjorie C. Hamer, owners of the Blue Bird Restaurant, have bought Grant Russell's Gourmet Shop in the Pine Inn.

The Hansel and Gretel candy store on Ocean avenue is moving out this weekend and will be in a new location within a few weeks.

Other changes are in the "negotiation" stage. By the time all is settled, Carmel's shopping area will have several new proprietors and new locations for present shop keepers.

FOURTH AUDUBON SCREEN TOUR

The Audubon Society announces the fourth Screen Tour for this Saturday, March 29, at Sunset School Auditorium, at 8 p.m. The lecturer, Harold M. Hill, has roamed the mountains and valleys of Southern California seeking out its more unusual forms of wildlife--particularly the birds of prey and waterfowl. His colored motion picture, "Wings and Talons," is a fast moving adventure. Hawks, owls, and eagles--the fierceness and excitement of drama in the sky--these swift-winged predators are featured stars.

Such birds as peregrine falcons, sparrow hawks, prairie falcons, great horned owls, barn owls, and America's national emblem, the bald eagle, are photographed at home and in stirring action. This film was produced jointly by Harold M. Hill and Telford H. Work. Dr. Hill recaptures, in this Audubon Screen Tour, all the thrills of the actual pursuit--scaling inaccessible seaside cliffs and climbing forbidding mountains to ferret out the secrets of wildlife species that live by "wings and talons."

There will be a dinner at the Pine Inn before the lecture, to which members and their friends are invited. All those desiring to attend are requested to call Mrs. Isabelle Terhune at 7-6028.

BARN THEATRE TO OPEN

"Oh Promise Me," the three-act comedy which, on April 19, will open the Barn Theatre's 1952 season, features many veteran Barnstormers, and following a Barn Theatre policy, will also include a number of newcomers to little theatre.

The play will have a run of eight weekend performances. Appearing in important roles are Esther Fleharty, Millie Kimball, Patty Trevett, Roland Scheffler, Holt Wood, and Lorraine Marcucci. Others in the cast will include Daphne Dirk, Marie-Louise Higby, Dorothee Foreman, Babette Ricker, Gene Eplett, and Herman Dauberman. The set is supervised by Bill Ricker. Barbara Chambers is stage manager, with Constance Banks handling properties, assisted by Jane Hexter.

Edward Kuster of the Golden Bough Playhouse recently addressed the Barnstormers and gave an interesting history of the little theatre movement on the Peninsula.

MONITOR ARTICLE ON DENNY-WATROUS

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous, long important in bringing art and entertainment to the Monterey Peninsula, have been honored by the Christian Science Monitor. The two women and their activities are the subject of a story in a recent issue of that paper.

The history of the Denny-Watrous management's undertakings is outlined. Special emphasis is put on the Bach Festival, an impressive event built by the two enterprising women, and the First Theater with its unusual, pleasing approach.

Also noted is the outstanding concert series the pair offers to San Jose audiences.

NEW FRENCH PLAY ON FESTIVAL SCHEDULE

A new French play will have its first American showing here during the drama festival next month. The play, "Nights of Wrath" by Armand Salacrou, will be presented by the San Jose State College group.

The festival, April 20-27, is being sponsored by the American National Theater and Academy (ANTA) and the California-Nevada Theater Council.

The college group doing this play is under the direction of Dr. James H. Clancy, head of the drama department. Dr. Clancy stumbled on the new play while on sabbatical leave in Europe. It was first presented in 1949 by two of France's most famous actors, Jean Louis Barrault and his wife, Madelaine Renaud. Since then it has been played in nine European countries, including England, with tremendous success. Harold Hobson of the London Sunday Times says, "Nights of Wrath is the finest play to come out of World War II."

Armand Salacrou is considered Europe's most outstanding dramatist. Unfortunately he is not known in America. Dr. Clancy not only obtained the production rights for this amazing play, but translated it himself from the French. Briefly, the plot deals with the dead conversing with the living and two childhood friends and a panic stricken woman. To quote Salacrou, "The play is, in a sense, a document, one to which we are all continual witnesses, and it is not impossible that the majority of the audience know my heroes."

HANG ONTO YOUR HATS LIONS' SHOW TOMORROW

Tomorrow at eight at the Mission Ranch the Lions' Club annual show will be on. A combination of styles and variety acts, it will benefit the Lions' Club youth projects and all of the talent and wares displayed are donated to the effort.

Acts scheduled include Carol May Starr, singer of Irish folk songs; Mike Balazs in a pantomime; Gracie Bell, "The Ocean Avenue Hillbilly;" Sue Kellner, Tina Hourcroft and Judy Rigsby, singers; Barry Johnson, Allen Knight, Jr., Ken Barker and Bob Douglas doing Carmel's version of Spike Jones, and instrumental trio and the Burlesque Queens.

Clothing for the fashion show will be provided by Gail Coupe, the Ban-Box, The Village Shoe Tree, Balzer's, Jack and Jill Shop, Kramer's, Rose Brown, Lanz of California, Anna Katz, Gladys McCloud, Harriet Adams, Putnam and Raggett, Harriet Duncan, the Kiddie Shop, Country Shop, Cinderella Shop, Turnabout Shop, Kirk, Ltd., and Best from Britain.

Models lined up for the show include the Misses Georgie Kincannon, Rose Gossler, Doris Hill, Susan Shirley, Leslie Geyer, Betty Hendricks, Nancy Brown, Lynn Tomlinson, Kay McCoombs, Barbara Berg, Glenna Martin, Dennie Zablackas, Connie Nielson, Lucy Elstob, Carol Ann Smith, and Charity Rigsby.

Mesdames J. P. Miller, Dale Schermerhorn, Sigred Liseth, Peggy Deal, Beverly Milam, Ernest Bixler, Katherine Perrson, T. D. Walter, Mary Krantz, Paul Filson, and Joan Shirley will also model.

Eugene MacFarland is the lone male victim so far chosen, and the only canine entry is "Jerry," Miss Adele Gifford's French poodle.

CARMEL ARTIST WINS TOP PRIZE AT NEW YORK SHOW

Donald Teague, Carmel artist, received the top award in watercolors at the annual National Academy of Design show in New York. The award includes the $200 Adolph and Clara Obrig prize.

Teague's painting is one of 26 entered, the entries being limited to members of the National Academy. The exhibition includes oil paintings, sculptures, and graphic prints. Prizes totaled $8,500 in the Academy's show, which has been an annual event since 1825.

YOUTH FOLLIES REHEARSING

From a total of 47 possible acts, the Youth Center Follies are narrowing down the field, rehearsing and planning costumes now for their big show April 25 and 26 at Sunset.

A sixteen strong dancing chorus, eight 6 foot boys and eight girls, is practicing now, as well as the 55 voice glee club.

Definitely in the show are also an acrobatic roller skating act and a "Me and My Shadow" dance routine. Jack and Bonnie Giles, directors of the Center, say "There's rehearsing everywhere, even in our apartment. It bodes well for a good show come April."

"Night on Bald Mountain," "Polonaise," from Boris Goudonoff,

"Entr'acte and Persian from Khovantchina, by Moussorgsky, and

"Snow Maiden Ballet Music," by Rimsky Korsakov.

These four orchestral gems on one 12-inch Urania longplay record performed in an unaffected, spirited manner by the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Leopold Ludwig. Good surfaces.

"Memorial Album" of the great Maria Cebotari including excerpts from operas by Richard Strauss, Mozart, and Puccini. The highlight of this enchanting disc is the "Butterfly" duet with Walter Ludwig, tenor. The two Mozart arias are not nearly as provocatively sung. Salome's final scene is highly dramatic and imaginative. This testament to a miraculous career is a valuable item in any collection of operatic music. A 12 inch

PARENTS AND TEACHERS MEET

Parents of children new to the elementary schools in Carmel were invited to a meeting on March 20 at Sunset School when the various aspects of the system were explained.

Mrs. William A. Smith, PTA president, told of the activities and aspirations of PTA. Stuart Mitchell, superintendent of schools, discussed the standing of the local system and their building program, and Miss Florence Morrow, school nurse, explained the health program. Miss Eleanor Crouch, the coordinator, explained curriculum and the guidance program. The talks were followed by a discussion period.

SUNSET TEACHER ATTENDS CONFERENCE

James Blee, 7th grade teacher at Sunset School, was among those attending the conference of the American Camping Association at Asilomar recently. Blee is director of the Sunset School Camping program. Speakers at the conference included Dr. Harry Overstreet, Charles Schottland, Director of the State Department of Social Welfare, and Dr. Norman Miller of UCLA, and representatives were present from San Diego, Long Beach, Santa Clara County, Berkeley, Fresno, and San Jose schools.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT GARDEN CLUB MEETING

Flowering shrubs were discussed at last Friday's garden club meeting by Robert Hedges of the Hyde Nursery in Watsonville. A display was brought by Hedges and some of the plants auctioned off following the meeting.

New officers were elected to serve this year. Mrs. C. C. Brockman will be president; Mrs. Leon Edner, vice-president; Col. George Baxter, recording secretary; Robert Menand, corresponding secretary, and Roland Haack, treasurer.

Refreshments for the meeting were served by Mrs. Templeton and Miss Kosch.

WORK CENTER GROWTH

450 stores in this and other countries are now distributing the products of the Carmel Work Center. A profit-sharing enterprise of artists and craftsmen, the center is adding approximately 25 new retail outlets to its list each month. A new catalogue for national distribution is being prepared, using full color illustrations.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

Robert Menand, well known horticulturist, was the featured speaker at the meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club last Monday. His talk on "Foundation Planting, Flowering Shrubs," dealt with effective and unusual color combinations of plants as well as insect control.

Mrs. Sinclair McClellan acted as hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Baxter. Mrs. Charles Couzens and Mrs. William Skowran poured tea.

At the meeting to be held on April 7, James Monesmith, world traveler and big game hunter, will show color films and tell of his recent safari in the depths of the Belgian Congo.

BOARD MEMBER NAMED

Dr. Harriett Hayes has been elected to the board of directors of the Carmel Foundation. She replaces Mrs. Frank Moller who resigned recently. The announcement was made this week by Dr. Helen Fields, executive secretary.

U of M CLUB MEETING

The University of Michigan Club is planning its next regular meeting for April 24 at the Casa Munras. Motion pictures of the 1951 Rose Bowl game between Michigan and California will be shown after the dinner. All Michigan graduates are urged to attend.

BON VOYAGE PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mc Harry will sail for Europe with their two children, Gail and Linda, on April 11. They will be gone about five months, sailing from New York on the U.S.S. America.

Among the many bon voyage events held was a dessert party on Wednesday by Mrs. Mark Raggett. A handkerchief shower, the party featured a table in blue, with a map of the U.S. at one end and a map of Europe at the other. In the center, the U.S.S. America sailed, laden with gift handkerchiefs for Gwen and Charles McHarry.

Mrs. Raggett's guests were Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mrs. Roderick Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Spaulding, Mrs. John Geisen, Mrs. George Luker, Mrs. Ralph Castagna, Mrs. Charles Grant, Mrs. Hampton Stewart, Mrs. Burton Doolittle, Mrs. Ted Durein, Mrs. John Gratiot, Mrs. Talcott Bates, Mrs. Gordon Beall, Mrs. Elliot Jones, Mrs. Mark Thomas, Mrs. A. B. Seccombe, Mrs. Frank Putnam, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Robert Kvenild, Mrs. P. G. Mason, Mrs. Thomas Perry, Mrs. William Arley Smith, Mrs. Walter Nielson, Mrs. Thomas Elston, Jr., Mrs. Glenn Leidig, Mrs. F. L. Wallace, Mrs. Robert McGinnis. Mrs. Edwin Tucker, Mrs. R. M. McArthur, Mrs. George Cain, and Mrs. William E. Cox.

The Roderick Wilsons will fete the McHarrys tomorrow with a cocktail party at their home.

BETZ GO TO AKRON

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Betz, who are returning to Akron, Ohio, to live, were given a farewell dinner party at the home of the A. Plaxtons last Sunday. They were wished good luck by their many friends here.

Residents of the Peninsula since 1948, Betz was associated in the Minick Transfer and Storage Company with his father-in-law Leo Miller.

Betz will be associated in Akron in his father's business, the Akron Parts Company.

Cathy Betz has been active in youth and civic affairs, and Gene Betz in the Garden Club, Shriners, Masons, Kiwanis, American Legion, Scout and Church affairs.

WORKS IN MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Work, vacationing in Mexico, were joined this week by Mrs. Work's son, Randy Spaulding. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Parrot of Carmel, saw him off.

PALM SPRINGS SERVES AS WARM-UP FOR APRIL RACES AT PEBBLE BEACH

The Palm Springs race last weekend proved to be close and exciting. Because of the inconclusive outcome, the owners and drivers of the sports cars are bound to be looking forward to the races at Pebble Beach April 20.

Among the big cars, it was a three-way fight in the latter stages. Michael Graham on Chapman's Allard was driving the same type of race he did when he won the Del Mar race in December. In that race he held back, letting Don Parkinson on a Jaguar Special set the pace, then passed Parkinson with three laps to go and won.

At Palm Springs he trailed Parkinson and Bill Manning, who was leading on his Mercury Special. With four laps to go, Graham was about 200 feet behind Parkinson who was, in turn, about 100 feet back of the fleeing Manning. At a signal from the pit, Graham put his foot in and passed Parkinson with three laps to go. He pulled to within 20 feet of Manning, planning to catch the special at the S bend.

But he miscalculated, and his car hit a hay bale. Although he lost only about five seconds, Parkinson repassed and Graham couldn't get by in the remaining two laps.

Alfred J. Coppel, Jr., who drove his MG to first place in the under 1,500 c.c. Desert Trophy that day, said Manning's car is "very ugly and very fast." But, he added, he thought that it would have a harder time on the Pebble Beach circuit. This course is known as "an Allard circuit," ideal for that car.

One of the most potent Allards on the coast did not race at Palm Springs. This car, owned by Tom Carstens, was driven to victory here last year by Bill Pollack. It is possible that Carstens was saving it for the Pebble Beach race.

George Cameron's Cunningham, making its West Coast debut, suffered bad luck on the fourth lap when its differential went out. Veteran Phil Hill was at the wheel and was at the wheel and was giving the big car a good drive until he was forced to retire. Cameron expects to enter the car here and it should be ready to bother the Allards on their "own" course.

The Cunningham has won two of the nation's most important road races, Watkin's Glen and Elkhart Lake.

In the shorter race for the smaller cars, J. S. Pringle came in second behind Coppel on Roger Barlow's Simca Special, which won its class here last year. This is the first time the little blue car has been beaten, but it was new to Pringle. Pollack came in third on a Siata, another car new to the coast. Barlow's new Simca, of which he expects great things, was forced to retire early in the going.

At Pebble Beach two 100-mile races will be run, one for cars up to 1,500 c.c. and one for the larger cars. Both promise to be closely contested judging by last weekend's meeting.

KITE FESTIVAL WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Under clear skies, Carmel's kite festival was held last Saturday at the High School, and 24 small and two big fry took home prizes.

Highest flying of the 1st through 5th graders was Alan Eaker and second was Harold Campbell. Deedee Cole came in first of the kindergarten and 1st graders, followed up by Gerry Barron and Jane Martin. Leslie Champ was king of the 2nd grade and John Eggleton second, while Mike Cole headed the 3rd grade, with Mary Elizabeth Martin and David Roberts runners up.

carmel library notes

New books at the library this week include one of the most widely acclaimed autobiographies of several years, Agnes de Mille's "Dance to the Piper." Miss DeMille's story of her long struggle to success as a dancer and choreographer is a beautifully written and fascinating book.

Those who claim that the United States has no foreign policy are confronted with considerable evidence to the contrary in "The Pattern of Responsibility" edited by McGeorge Bundy. Bundy, who is an associate professor of government at Harvard University, has traced the course of our foreign policy from the speeches, press conferences, reports to the President, and testimony before congressional committees of the much criticized Dean Acheson.

A book that will probably serve to enlist many adventurous recruits to the sport of spear fishing is Hans Hass' "Diving to Adventure." Hass, a young Austrian, tells of his encounters with giant octopi, sharks, and barracuda, as well as his experiences in underwater photography. The book has 58 illustrations by the author.

"Turn West, Turn East" by Henry Seidel Canby provides parallel biographies of two of America's great writers, Mark Twain and Henry James.

A tall, slender woman, with a musical voice, Mrs. MARJORIE McCAUSLAND is extremely happy in her job. Her job is that of principal of Woods school, a domain comprising six rooms, 156 students, and five teachers. Her contentment is reflected in the happy relaxed atmosphere of the school, and in the pleasantness that prevails there. Called Marjorie by her teachers, "visited" by the small fry, she has made of the school an especially warm and friendly place.

A native Californian, Marjorie McCausland was born in Hanford, California, a small town near Visalia. Educated through high school there, she journeyed to Berkeley for her degree, and came nearer to this area to take her practice teaching at San Jose.

With credentials in hand she went back to Hanford to teach in the elementary school there, and one brief year later, was principal of the school in which she held her first post.

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT

Her next move was a strange one for a person deeply fond of children, and whose first love was kindergarten. She went to Los Angeles where the public schools were wrestling with the problem of foreign born, non-English speaking parents. With a large native-speaking population, Los Angeles had encountered heart-breaking difficulties with children who suffered from language handicaps and from a lack of adjustment to American standards. The school board felt that the place to work on bridging the cultural and educational gap was among the parents.

Mrs. McCausland took on the job of Americanization teacher... She penetrated, with difficulty in some cases, into foreign language homes, a firm determination to spread English and knowledge of American cultural ways in mind. Since the native-speaking mothers had a mountainous indifference to learning English, her job was less than straightforward. She followed them from room to room, stood in the kitchen, helped with cooking, and all the time pointed out English words for the utensils and chores she shared with the women. It was only after the initial resistance had been overcome and a spark of interest kindled that she could continue her work in the more suitable confines of a classroom.

WORK IN JAIL

The other half of her job was in jail. There she held classes in Americanization among vagrants and petty criminals. These too met with a cavernous yawn at first. Interest was kindled slowly; hostility often had to be overcome before any real progress could be made, and the whole assignment would have been taxing to a saint.

After six years there, Mrs. McCausland married, and went to the edge of Death Valley to live, at Trona. Several years later, her husband's health suggested a move and their thoughts turned to Carmel, which Marjorie McCausland had known since childhood. On a chance she applied to Sunset School and was delighted to find an opening in remedial work. "I love remedial work.... Seem to get wonderful results and a great deal of satisfaction from it," she says. After three years there, during which time her husband passed away, Mrs. McCausland was asked to take the principalship of the newly opened Woods. That was three years ago.

HELPED PLAN WOODS

Consulted in the original planning of Woods, and now in the future plans for her school, Mrs. McCausland pioneered the Woods' system of parent conferences as a substitute for report cards. She felt that report cards were at best a one-way street, conferring information to the parents, but not to the teachers... who might often profit from suggestions by parents. Adopted from the beginning at Woods, parent-conferences were this year instituted at Sunset due to the encouraging results Woods had from them.

ANNA KATZ

Crowded already, Woods hums with activity. Mrs. Mc Causland's "office" is sandwiched in a corner of the cafeteria. At the other side is the nurse's corner...and just outside a tent in which medical exams are given. The janitor's quarters are next to hers, and eating tables fill the rest of the space. Though not a model set-up, it has its advantages. The ice-box is there, and in the ice-box repose goodies, and where there are goodies there are small fry...a happy combination of attractions not usual in most principal's offices. It all makes for a highly popular Mrs. McCausland.

The kindergarten bells at Woods School sing out gaily "Mary had a little lamb" to signal that "now we do something else." When the little tune sings out...an effective, and highly pleasant sound, it seems to summarize the thoughtful and happy tenor set Woods by a happy and thoughtful principal.

years on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, writes of a region he knows thoroughly in "The Damned Missouri Valley." Those interested in this area, which comprises one-sixth of the United States, will find this book a searching, carefully documented study of the Valley and its problems.

Anyone who has followed the published works of John Gunther of late will realize the inevitability of his latest book, "Eisenhower." This rather slender volume gives biographical material as well as the author's assessment of the general.

Maurice Grosser, an artist who has paintings in many of our leading museums, has a new book "The Painter's Eye," in which he undertakes to explain art and artists from Titian to Jackson Pollock. The book is written in non-technical language and is directed to the amateur painter as well as anyone interested in art.

Alson Smith has compiled the writings of many researchers in psychic phenomena such as extra-sensory perception and prophetic dreams in "The Psychic Source Book."

Erna Fergusson, who has written many travel books, has a new one on her native state, "New Mexico." Her book is divided into three sections, Indian, Spanish, and Gringo, each dealing with cultural influences of these racial groups.

The Amateur Gardener

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

The Easter Season in the garden is the most exciting time of the year, aside from the anticipation of beauty and pleasure. It is the time of the Resurrection and the Life, so that faith may be renewed or strengthened--in the belief that life is expanding and a continuing factor throughout all living things. In the Divine Plan, life is to grow and progress from the lower to the higher form through death and resurrection. Man progresses because of a Divine Discontent and he works to improve and develop the good earth which he has inherited.

Man by this Divine Discontent has been guided by his Creator. He has gathered from all over the world the wild flowers, plants, and trees, and through cross breeding, hybridizing, grafting, and budding has developed glorious flowers, fruits, and vegetables.

Planting seed is truly a miracle seldom taken into consideration in the perpetuation of life. A packet of seed, all looking alike in color and form, will germinate and produce many flowers in a variety of colors.

Then we have the reproduction of plants by cuttings, which reproduce the original plant in true color and form, whereas if the seed is used, the original color is seldom obtained unless a single color is planted in the garden. If a number of colors are planted and seed used, the strongest colors will predominate. For this reason it is advisable to buy new seeds.

A friend said to me yesterday, "Your garden articles have inspired me to take up gardening; but I have never been able to grow a thing."

PLANTS ARE LIVING THINGS:

My advice is just to try to learn a few fundamentals which are simple. I think of plants of all kinds, including trees, as living things. They have a system of organs similar to the animal kingdom; they breathe, digest food, have veins and arteries, and a reproductive system. They absorb their food through the roots. It is carried by the circulation to the leaves and, with the action of the sun, the inorganic matter is converted into proteins, fats, carbohydrates, hormones, and vitamins. The water is given off by the leaves, which at the same time inhale and absorb gasses from the air. When the plant has matured it forms flowers, which are pollenated in several ways; then the flower forms seed; thus the cycle of life continues.

Thinking of plants as living individuals--we must know something about soil preparation, judicious feeding and watering.

Some plants complete their life cycle in one year, some in two to many years. Those that live over a year must go into a dormant state for rest and sleep. In Spring, with longer days and more sunshine, the plant revives and we see the return to life. This is one of the wonderful rewards in our gardening efforts.

Very few young parents know anything about raising children, but they soon learn, and that is the way in gardening.

IMPORTANT TASKS FOR THIS MONTH

Weeds. Weeds also come to life in Spring. Pull them out at once; it is easier now and less work.

Soil. Before the ground becomes too dry, it should be cultivated. Stir up the surface not too deep; this destroys weeds and allows air to reach the roots, and conserves moisture. Fuschias, hydrangeas, heather, roses, citrus trees, and most perennials have many surface roots and they should not be disturbed. Next month some good commercial fertilizer should be worked into the soil; but it must not come in contact with the trunk.

Insects. Insects also propagate at this time, so a good all-purpose spray should be applied every 10 days. Snailbait must be placed about the garden also, preferably late in the afternoons.

Lawns. Rake and feed the grass. If the grass looks thin and spotted, sow some new seed. A slight cover of sand is helpful.

New Plants. The hybrid genista is very beautiful, a good yellow, and blooms a long time. Do not prune it very much since it can be spoiled so easily. Do not scorn the wild genista; keep it in bounds by shearing; but no heavy pruning.

Convolvulus minor (dwarf morning glory). It is beautiful hanging over a wall in full sun. The flowers are blue with white in the cup. They seem to be hand painted. I find very few people who know it. The plant grows 12 to 14 inches high and never becomes a nuisance.

Glitter Marigold. The flower is like a chrysanthemum, canary yellow, three inches across, and blooms late into the Fall.

Columbine hybrid long spurred. They thrive in moist soil and in partial shade, a beautiful perennial.

Delphinium Pacific Giants. The only variety to plant in this area. It requires generous feeding and should be sprayed with lindane or an all-purpose spray. In hot weather keep the roots cool with compost or peat.

Hybrid Schizanthus. A very satisfactory plant for color with nice foliage. Birds love the new seedlings so keep young plants covered.
